Project Clean Cauvery

▶ Plans on to curb River Cauvery pollution from ritual ashes ▶ Rs. 4 crore project to regulate asthi visarjan at Srirangapatna Sangam

Mysuru, June 20 (RK&BCT)- The Srirangapatna Town Municipal Council (TMC) has invited tenders for preparing a Detailed Project Report (DPR) to construct dedicated platforms, waste disposal units, and a specialised drainage system to handle ashes from 'asthi visarjan' (immersion of cremation ashes) rituals at the sacred Sangam in Srirangapatna.

The initiative aims to prevent ashes and ritual waste from directly polluting the Cauvery River. Once the DPR is finalised, rituals will be regulated, and necessary infrastructure will be developed at Paschimavahini, Sangam, Gosai Ghat and Snana Ghatta — all significant sites for these religious practices.

The total project cost is estimated at Rs. 4 crore. Authorities hope this will put an end to the current unregulated system that leads to ritual waste polluting the river.

HEALTHY EATING — START AT THE SCHOOLS: The decision of the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) to establish sugar boards in all its affiliated schools is a good step that promotes healthy eating among children. The CBSE has directed about 26,000 schools to display boards in their premises that will tell the students about the dangers of sugar-heavy diets and the benefits of good eating. This is a timely move when viewed along with reports of increasing incidence of diabetes among children in the country. India, known as the diabetes capital, has over 25% of the world's patients. It is a serious health crisis that calls for strategies to reduce the burden and to ensure that the future generations do not add to this burden.

Unhealthy food has been cited as an important reason and the CBSE has done well to take a lead in addressing the issue. Among the proposed communication points are the recommended daily sugar intake and the health risks associated with a high intake. The students will also be informed of the sugar content in snacks and beverages that are commonly consumed. This will give the children a good idea of the advantages and disadvantages of their food choices. Children are good learners and smart, creative communication of these themes can have a positive influence on their habits.

Information shared about the food choices should also be backed with action. School canteens must ensure that only healthy food is served to the students. Teachers have a major role to play in popularising the idea among children; parents must also be made part of the campaign. These information boards should be prominently displayed on multiple locations in the school campuses to ensure that the message reaches all the students. Other school boards and government schools need to adopt the idea of healthy eating and find ways to communicate it to children through multiple, innovative channels. We live in a consumerist society where fast food has been celebrated and presented to children and adults as an ideal, convenient choice. It is also important that the promotion of fast food is countered with data and facts that are presented in creative, easily comprehended campaigns. — In Deccan Herald

Eatery releases 110-year-old lobster to sea

Hempstead: A 21-pound lobster estimated to be 110 years old was released back into the open sea by a New York seafood restaurant.

Butch Yamali, owner of Peter's Clam Bar in Hempstead, Long Island, said the lobster, named Lorenzo, has been living at the eatery for years. He said freeing Lorenzo seemed like an appropriate way to celebrate National Lobster Day and Father's Day.

Yamali said he was pleased to be able to give Lorenzo a second chance at life in the wild. "Some of these lobsters just don't live that long and this one did. So we figured what better way to celebrate Father's Day than by freeing Lorenzo. He became like a pet. He's gonna be missed, but I think it's better like this. If he passed away here, it wouldn't be a good thing, and I couldn't have the heart to sell him," he said.

Missing mongoose turns up at pub 15 miles away

Ballaugh: A mongoose that escaped from a wildlife park on Britain's Isle of Man was safely captured after paying a visit to a local pub.

The Curraghs Wildlife Park in Ballaugh said the yellow mongoose, named Gef, escaped last week by burrowing out of his enclosure and was on the loose for several days before turning up at the Heron and Brearley brewery in Douglas, about 15 miles from the zoo.

Gef, who was born in September, is now back at the zoo and will be in quarantine for a short time before rejoining his family.

Zoo officials said they suspect Gef may have escaped to search for a mate.

The zoo said it is in the process of finding Gef a new home at another zoo where he can join a breeding programme.

REALLY...?

- Rice as a domesticated food source has been around for centuries, but for how long is debated. Excavations in India found evidence of rice cultivation dating back to about 4530 B.C. Other scholars claim evidence of cultivated rice was first found in China, dating to 2800 B.C. Either way, rice has been a part of our diets for a very long time throughout most of the world.

An ordeal with FASTag

Sir,

On Feb. 15, 2025, while travelling from Mysuru to Bengaluru, my vehicle was denied passage at Gananganur Toll Plaza. The staff claimed I had insufficient balance and demanded double payment. However, my SBI FASTag balance showed Rs. 1,460. On request, the staff allowed me to take U-turn in the last lane to contact customer care.

Upon speaking with customer care, I was assured that my FASTag was active and advised to try another lane. I faced the same issue again, causing a long queue behind me and frustration among other drivers. To avoid further delay, I paid Rs. 350 (double toll fee) and proceeded.

Later, customer care informed me that my FASTag was blacklisted and asked me to re-upload KYC documents. Despite multiple attempts over three days, the SBI FASTag portal failed to process my upload due to server issues. The FASTag agency in Mysuru also confirmed server-related problems.

Interestingly, I had missed a route on a previous occasion, passing through additional tolls that left my account balance negative. I promptly replenished the amount, which was later adjusted. However, I received no prior intimation about the blacklisting or the negative balance resolution.

Many of my friends have also received repeated requests to re-upload KYC documents. Such inefficiencies by FASTag authorities cause unnecessary trouble and embarrassment for commuters. Even now, I am unable to log in and submit my KYC documents online. I urge the authorities to adopt a more user-friendly approach to prevent such issues in the future.

MP Yaduveer urges GST cut for Yoga Schools

Mysuru, June 20 (BCT)- With preparations in full swing across the State, country and the world for International Day of Yoga, Mysuru-Kodagu MP Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar has urged the Union Government to revise the Goods and Services Tax (GST) levied on Yoga training institutions.

The MP met Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman recently, requesting a reduction in the current GST rate applicable to Yoga Schools. He highlighted that Yoga, deeply rooted in Indian heritage, has now gained international recognition and continues to be actively promoted both nationally and globally.

"Mysuru is widely regarded as the Yoga Capital of the World. Yoga is not just physical exercise — it nurtures mental and spiritual wellness and has evolved into a way of healthy living," Yaduveer said adding that Prime Minister Narendra Modi's sustained efforts have elevated Yoga's status worldwide, leading to June 21 being celebrated as International Day of Yoga.

MP Yaduveer with Union Minister Nirmala Sitharaman.

"Many small and community-run centres offer training in yoga free of cost or at nominal fees. Unfortunately, these Yoga institutions are clubbed with fitness centres and gyms, attracting 18% GST. This has placed an undue financial burden on them," he mentioned.

As Yoga Day approaches, the MP requested the Finance Ministry to reduce GST on Yoga Schools. According to the MP, Nirmala Sitharaman responded favourably and assured him that necessary action would be taken at the earliest.

TRAFFIC HURDLE

- Rampant footpath, road encroachment between 101 Ganapathy Temple Circle and M.V. Srinivasan Circle near SMT Hospital
- Authorities turn blind eye as motorists, pedestrians continue to suffer

Mysuru, June 20 (SPN&BS)- The footpath and road along an one kilo-metre stretch from 101 Ganapathy Circle in Agrahara to M.V. Srinivasan Circle (Five Lights Circle) near Seth Mohandas Tulsidas (SMT) Maternity Hospital in city has turned into a chock-a-block, with rampant footpath and road encroachments, leaving the motorists and pedestrians fuming throughout the day.

The very stretch of road passes through Gaadi Chowka, Kanaka Circle (Nanjumalige Circle) in Nanjumalige and connects to a wide stretch of Manandavadi Road (H.D. Kote Road), splitting towards JLB Road at M.V. Srinivasan Circle.

Picture shows traffic jam at M.V. Srinivasan Circle on Mysuru-Manandavadi Road in city.

However, it is about 40 years since the issue persists, with the shop-keepers occupying a significant portion of footpath especially between Gaadi Chowka, Kanaka Circle and M.V. Srinivasan Circle and the parallel road, now spilling on to the road too, but the authorities concerned turn a blind eye, after conducting a clearance drive for the sake of doing a perfunctory job.

The hustle and bustle at M.V. Srinivasan Circle have aggravated ever since the push cart vendors started setting up make-shift stalls, occupying a significant portion of the footpath stretching towards JLB Road. Strangely, a bus stop and cycle docking station is also located at the same spot, but the users are at the mercy of vendors to spare the space for easy access of public facilities.

Nanjappa Building is a good old commercial complex with shops, from which the area earned its sobriquet Nanjumalige (meaning Nanjappa's Stall). It is in a dilapidated condition, but the tenants are in no mood to vacate for the fear of losing the business that has passed generations.

It is also said that some of the tenants have moved Court against the building owner, claiming ownership of the shops.

On the other hand, Mysuru-Kodagu MP Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar and Krishnaraja MLA T.S. Srivatsa conducted a meeting with traders, but their appeal against footpath encroachment went in vain.

As this particular stretch of Manandavadi Road passing through Nanjumalige winds towards new extensions, it witnesses heavy traffic density throughout the day.

The either side of the road, with Narayana Shastri Road located on the other side, is a narrow stretch with two-lane traffic movement permitted. When the pedestrians too are forced to take the road with footpath occupied by the shop-keepers, imagine the hurdle faced on traffic front.

KSRTC buses, private transport operators including buses and shuttle vans operating between Mysuru-H.D. Kote and the rural parts of Mysuru taluk, also provide a stoppage at Nanjumalige Circle and M.V. Srinivasan Circle.

The SMT Hospital that caters to rural women the most, is frequented by ambulances, which zip past at times depending on the emergency cases. The traffic jam at M.V. Srinivasan Circle has become the order of the day, with vehicles stranded up in a circular form, with no way out.

MLA T.S. Srivatsa said, there are some technical issues which need to be addressed, until then there is no permanent solution at sight. If any action is taken to clear the footpath encroachment, what can be the alternative for the vendors, is the question. Nobody can escape the fate, he noted.

Tiger mauls tribal woman to death

Gundlupet, June 20 (SOMG& KS)- A tribal woman, who was tending to a flock of sheep at a field bordering Bandipur Tiger Reserve, was mauled to death by a tiger yesterday.

The deceased is Puttamma (44), a resident of Deshipura Colony. She had lost her husband recently and was living with her two children Sharath and Abbayi.

Yesterday afternoon, Puttamma was looking after her flock which were grazing in the field bordering Omkar Range in Bandipur, when the tiger pounced on her and dragged her to a distance. Hearing her screams, farmers, who were working in nearby fields rushed to her help and began to scream and make loud noises. But the tiger, which did not leave Puttamma, dragged her towards the forest and devoured her neck and stomach.

Tahsildar T. Ramesh Babu, Omkar Range Forest Officer (RFO) N Satish Kumar, Dy.SP Lakshmaiah, Begur Circle Inspector Vanaraju, Sub-Inspector Chanran Gowda and others visited the spot and based on the blood marks, traced the body of Puttamma in the bushes.

Angered over the tiger killing the woman, residents of neighbouring villages, members of various farmer associations, protested demanding shooting down the tiger, Rs. 25 lakh compensation to the victim's family and a permanent job in the Forest Department to the children of Puttamma.

Bandipur Project Tiger Director S. Prabhakaran, who came to the spot, gave a cheque for Rs. 10 lakh as per the Government rule and announced to provide temporary jobs to Puttamma's children following which, the protest was called off.

The body was shifted to Begur Community Hospital, where post-mortem was conducted and the body was handed over to the family members.

Prabhakaran said that as there are chances of the tiger attacking again, a cage will be placed to trap the tiger and camera traps will be installed to know the tiger's movements.

He further said that trained elephants will be brought and combing operation will be conducted.

Tiger spotted near school

Hunsur: Parents of children studying in Morarji Desai Residential School, near Dharmapura Social Forest at Bilikere Hobli in the taluk are a feared lot after a CCTV camera installed in the school has captured movement of a tiger near the school.

About 15 days ago, information was given to the Forest Department after a tiger was spotted roaming around Nanjapura and Gowripura. Forest officials, who visited the spot, found pug marks and had warned the farmers.

Meanwhile, a CCTV camera has captured the tiger leaping over Morarji Desai Resident School and Kittur Rani Chennamma Residential School compounds.

Project Clean Cauvery

Upa Lokayukta Justice B. Veerappa and others at Srirangapatna recently.

The Cauvery River, considered the lifeline of South Karnataka, is under severe threat in Srirangapatna due to unchecked pollution caused largely by religious practices. Thousands of devotees from across India and abroad visit Srirangapatna's sacred ghats to immerse ashes of their departed loved ones, believing that doing so helps the souls attain 'moksha.'

However, alongside the ashes, flower garlands, clay pots, clothes and other puja items are often discarded directly into the river, causing significant water pollution. The absence of proper monitoring has also resulted in aggressive competition among priests, touts and middlemen who often exploit grieving families.

Upa Lokayukta visit

The footfall at these sites increases manifold during occasions like Mahalaya Amavasya and other auspicious days. Following multiple public complaints to the Lokayukta, Upa Lokayukta Justice B. Veerappa recently visited Srirangapatna to inspect the situation firsthand. He found large-scale, daily pollution of the river, exploitation of devotees, and a complete lack of regulated procedures for 'asthi visarjan.'

The Upa Lokayukta directed the Srirangapatna TMC to provide basic facilities at Paschimavahini, Sangam, Gosai Ghat and Snana Ghatta, including proper platforms for rituals, waste disposal units, and a designated drainage system to ensure ashes do not directly mix with the Cauvery's waters.

Trade licences

He said that the Srirangapatna TMC should issue trade licences to priests and agents conducting rituals at the Sangam and install display boards clearly listing the rates for each ritual, to prevent devotees from being exploited by unscrupulous elements.

Confirming these developments, Srirangapatna TMC Chief Officer M. Rajanna said, "Immersion rituals have been identified as a major source of pollution in the Cauvery here. Following the Upa Lokayukta's visit, a committee under the Chairmanship of the Mandya Assistant Commissioner has been formed. It includes the Srirangapatna Tahsildar, Town Panchayat Executive Officer, TMC CEO, Environment Officer, and a representative from the Cauvery Neeravari Nigam Limited (CNNL). The committee has instructed the preparation of a DPR, and the tender process is now underway."

PIL in High Court

It may be noted that in July 2024, a group of six advocates led by Bengaluru-based Kushal Kumar Koushik filed a Public Interest Litigation (PIL) in the Karnataka High Court seeking clear directions to regulate 'asthi visarjan' rituals in Srirangapatna.

'Asthi visarjan' ritual booked even before a person dies!

Mysuru, June 20 (RK&BCT)- 'Asthi visarjan' is a ritual performed after the cremation of a deceased person. Asthi refers to the ashes remaining after cremation. Due to the sanctity associated with Cauvery River, there is high demand for performing this ritual at Srirangapatna, with bookings often made even before the person's demise.

During Upa Lokayukta Justice B. Veerappa's recent visit to the Sangam in Srirangapatna, it was revealed that certain priests, agents and touts actively advertise on social media and online platforms, highlighting the facilities available for 'asthi visarjan.'

"I have received numerous complaints from public that advance bookings are being made with unreasonable payments for 'asthi visarjan' even before a person dies. Families, especially those who live abroad, are often advised by elders to reserve a spot at Srirangapatna Sangam well in advance," he informed the officials.

Justice Veerappa expressed surprise at this trend, comparing it to practices like organ or body donation pledges before death.

Officials accompanying him struggled to answer when he questioned why Srirangapatna TMC had not yet implemented any measures to regulate asthi visarjan rituals.

Pravin Togadia vows to build a stronger Hindu community

Mysuru, June 20 (BLU&DM)- Antararashtriya Hindu Parishad (AHP) President Dr. Pravin Togadia has said that the primary goal of the Hindu Parishad is to ensure that every Hindu in the country lives safely, prosperously and with dignity.

He was speaking at the 'Hindu Chintana Sabhe' organised this morning at Alamma Choultry on Vinoba Road in Shivarampet, under the joint aegis of the AHP, the Mysuru District Unit of the Rashtriya Bajrang Dal and other pro-Hindu organisations.

Highlighting the Parishad's service activities, Togadia recalled that the AHP, along with the Bajrang Dal, Mahila Dal and others, had arranged free food, accommodation, beds and other facilities for devotees during the Mahakumbh Mela in Uttar Pradesh earlier this year.

He also reminisced about his association with Mysuru, recalling the Ram Mandir movement launched by the Vishwa Hindu Parishad (VHP) in the city three decades ago.

Hanuman Chalisa centres

"Now, the Ram Mandir has become a reality at Ayodhya. The Antararashtriya Hindu Parishad's mission is to ensure a safe, prosperous and dignified life for Hindus. At present, there are 30,000 Hanuman Chalisa centres across the country, and plans are underway to increase this to one lakh centres, reaching over two crore Hindus in the coming days. These centres should serve as hubs for uplifting poor Hindus, providing healthcare and empowering women through Mahila Shakti Kendras," he said.

Pointing out that Muslims gather at Mosques and Christians at Churches, where community interactions strengthen bonds, Togadia stressed that Hanuman Chalisa centres must similarly become focal points for uniting the Hindu community.

Emphasising the need for such centres, he said they should also function as Hindu Helpline Centres, benefitting Hindus in need.

"The Hindu population in Bangladesh, a nation liberated by India, is steadily declining — a serious concern not only for Hindus there but also for our country. Our Temples and Hindu religious institutions must be freed from Government control and interference," he noted.

"The Parishad will work for the welfare and growth of Hindus and Hinduism from a national perspective, remaining apolitical and not aligning with any political party," he said, adding that Hanuman Chalisa gatherings will be organised nationwide on Saturdays and Sundays.

AHP Mysuru District President K. Lokesh, AHP Bengaluru District President Sundararajan, Bhagat Sena President Narasimhamurthy, BJP leader Jayaprakash (JP) and others were present.

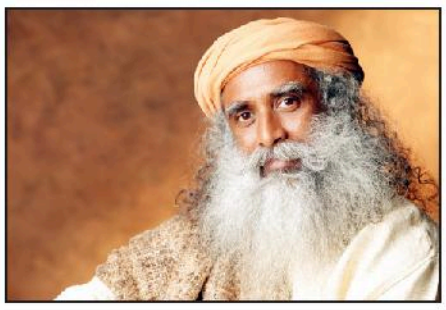
MYSTIC'S MUSINGS



By Sadhguru - Founder, Isha Foundation

Kailash - The Greatest Mystical Library

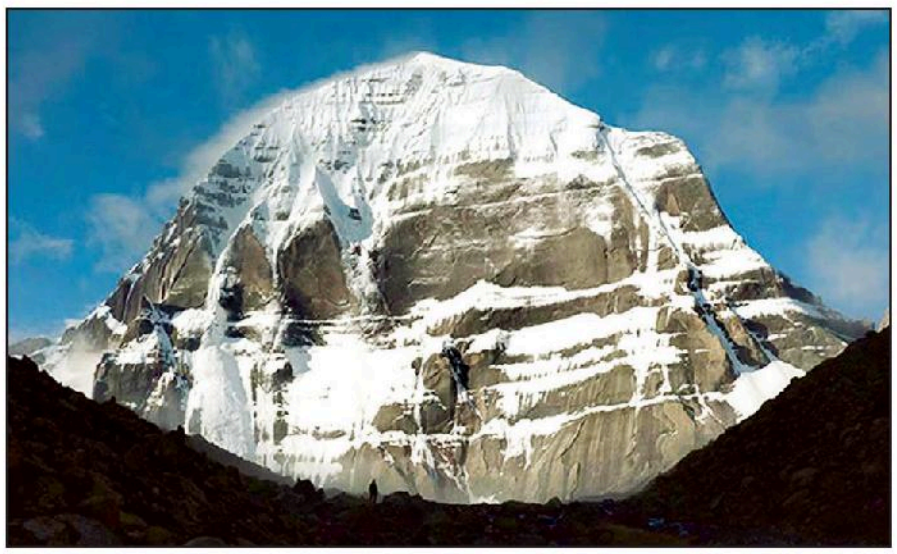
Kailash Manasarovar - The Journey of a Lifetime

The idea of going on a trek or a mountaineering feat is always towards a sense of achievement, to make yourself bigger than who you are. But the idea of a pilgrimage is to subdue yourself. It is to become nothing in the process of just walking, climbing, and subjecting yourself to various arduous processes of nature.

Places of pilgrimage in the ancient past were always located in such places where a person had to go through a certain amount of physical and mental hardship to get there, so that in the process, he becomes less than who he thinks he is. Today, things have been made much more comfortable. People are flying up, walking a little bit and then driving down.

In terms of destination, the pilgrimage to Kailash is probably the greatest that one can make. Kailash is a tremendous spiritual library, and it has been for at least the last few thousand years. Generally, people say 10,000 to 12,000 years; many people say it is much more than that. In the Hindu way of life, people say that Kailash is the Abode of Shiva. When we say it is the Abode of Shiva, it does not mean that he is still sitting up there, or dancing, or hiding in the snow.

What it means is this — when a person realises and his perception goes far beyond what is normal, what he has perceived cannot always be transmitted to people around him; only a small part of it can be transmitted. It is very rare for any Master to find people he can transmit all of himself to. Most Masters go without ever being able to transmit what they really want to transmit. You do not want this to go lost. So where do you leave all this?



For thousands of years, realised beings always travelled to Kailash and deposited their knowledge in a certain way, in a certain energy form. They used the mountain as a scaffold to create this. This is the reason why the Buddhists say three of their main Buddhas — Manjushree, Avalokiteshwara, and Vajrapani — all live there in the mountain.

The Jains say Rishabh, the first Theerthankar, lives there, Hindus say Shiva lives there, and South Indian mysticism says their greatest yogi, Agastya Muni, who is the basis of South Indian mysticism and is one of the seven direct disciples of Shiva, lives in the southern face of Kailash.

It does not mean that they are all actually living there. It means that they deposited their work in Kailash because they could not transmit it all to people. A variety of social situations did not permit one to do that. All 63 Nayanmars, saints from South India, also went to Kailash because they too never had the opportunity to transmit their perception to the people around them. So it is a treasure house of knowledge.

In terms of inner dimensions, anything that you ever want to know is in Kailash. If you know how to perceive and decipher it, everything about your own creation, about your making and existence, and about your liberation is all there. If one is willing to raise his perception to sufficient clarity, it is distinctly visible and available.

Above all, the journey itself is simply fantastic. Tibet as a land is so amazing and unique in terms of its natural beauty. Every land has its own beauty, but this is something different from what you normally see — very different. During the journey, you can stand on a grassy plain, you can see sand dunes like a desert, you can see green hills and you can see snow-clad peaks, everything in one place. The variety of terrain is quite incredible.

WORD OF THE DAY

Jeopardise

Pronunciation: JEP-er-dyze (verb)
Meaning: To jeopardise something or someone is to put them at risk or in danger.
Origin: Imagine you're a contestant on a game show, and your task is to provide a question as a response to this statement from the host: "This word was once controversial, and in 1870 a grammarian called it 'a foolish and intolerable word,' a view shared by many 19th-century critics." If you answered, "What is jeopardise?," you might be going home with some money! The preferred word back then was jeopard, which first appeared in print in the 14th century. The upstart jeopardise didn't arrive until the late 16th century, and took a while to catch on. In 1828, Noah Webster himself declared jeopardise to be "a modern word, used by respectable writers in America, but synonymous with jeopard, and therefore useless." Unfortunately for the champions of jeopard, increased usage of jeopardise ultimately put the former word in jeopardy. Jeopard is now only rarely heard.
Example: "To keep the cub from forming bonds with people that could jeopardise his return to the wild, staff members charged with his care are dressing up in bear costumes, including a mask, fur coat and leather gloves." — Summer Lin, The Los Angeles Times, 24 May 2025.

THE ODD WORD

Makebate

One that excites contention and quarrels.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Dog Days of Summer

Meaning: The phrase 'Dog Days of Summer' is used to talk about hot, sultry days.
Origin: The expression 'Dog Days of Summer' is celestial in origin. The term indicates a period between July 3 and Aug. 11 when Dog Star, Sirius, rises at the same time or near the same time as the sun in the Northern hemisphere.
Example: "Popsicles are great for staying cool during dog days of summer."
